

Sign In

THEATER

Bay Area theater in fall 2022: Reuniting never felt so good

Stagings from Aurora Theatre Company, SFBATCO and Central Works are among Bay Area fall theater's tantalizing offerings.

Lily Janiak | August 24, 2022 Updated: August 24, 2022, 9:32 am

'The Museum Annex'

In 1986, George C. Wolfe's scorching satire "The Colored Museum" dived into a series of African American tropes and narratives, presented as living museum exhibits: Ebony magazine models with superhuman beauty and no substance beneath, dueling wigs, a flight attendant aboard a slave ship. With this world premiere by new play hothouse Central Works, Los Angeles playwright Mildred Inez Lewis envisions an annex to Wolfe's work, focused on women. Elizabeth Carter directs.

Oct. 15-Nov. 13. $15-$40. Berkeley City Club, 2315 Durant Ave., Berkeley. 510-558-1381. www.centralworks.org

